

WILLOW POLE
This pole was carved by a Tahltan Indian of the Klaskanine River, British Columbia, and is now in the collection of the British Museum, London.
The figures represent
the spirit of the pole,
the spirit of the river, and the spirit of the forest.

And why do you grow?
at being bitten into 2
Is it because the 2 are human?

Happy Beaver
you do not know
You are Frog.

It is thyself you bite

Please credit the NATIONAL MUSEUM OF CANADA
Ottawa, Canada.
If this photograph is published.